Job Description

Who we are?

Stryker is one of the world's leading medical technology companies and is dedicated to helping healthcare professionals perform their jobs more efficiently while enhancing patient care. The Company offers a diverse array of innovative medical technologies, including reconstructive, medical and surgical, and neurotechnology and spine products to help people lead more active and more satisfying lives. We are currently seeking a Software Test Engineer, Co-Op to join Stryker Endoscopy's Test team located in Burnaby, Canada.

What we do?

We partner closely with R&D to experiment with early prototypes and vet product designs throughout the design process. You will be responsible for design verification: from developing and maintaining test protocols, and test execution to documenting results in test reports that are included in regulatory submissions. Communication and coordination are essential skills as you will share and/or coordinate samples, test execution, and test results with the team lead.

What you will do?

- Demonstrated knowledge of understanding the Software test discipline.
- Applies engineering judgement in a subset of their area to root cause defects and develop test methods.
- Develops repeatable test methods of simple complexity for a well-defined requirement.
- Has a high-level understanding of the functionality of the product(s).
- Gathers feedback from users and technical leaders during test protocol development.
- Demonstrates high level of understanding on the Design Controls, regulatory standards and guidance applicable to specific test protocols.

- Responsible for performing test execution and developing test results following Good Documentation Practices (GDP)
- Regularly updates Test Lead and/or Functional Manager with status of tasks.
