Our Commitment to Students:

At Canadian Tire, we are committed to providing students with a supportive and collaborative environment that fosters knowledge sharing and offers key experiences to help them develop their capabilities through projects and objectives. We believe in setting specific and measurable goals that align with our business objectives to support learning and help students achieve their full potential. Our culture emphasizes learning from others, continuous improvement, agility, growth, and innovation, and we are invested in building a talented, diverse workforce for the future of Canada and Canadian Tire. Additionally, we are dedicated to building strong relationships with our student employees by engaging with them throughout their education and career pursuits, and creating opportunities for ongoing communication and relationship building.

What you'll do:

The Business Analyst Student will be involved in all phases of the development of business solutions, from the identification and analysis of opportunities, through to implementation and ongoing support:

- Perform in-depth analysis of data, turn large sets of data into meaningful information, and develop viable conclusions within the framework of the project
- Use of Agile Project Management framework in support of analysis, design, development, testing, and implementation of key initiatives (aligning with our strategic goals and objectives)
- Collaborate successfully with key stakeholders both internal and external acting as a liaison and a change agent driving efficiencies and better decision making for our Courier portfolio
- Work closely with multiple ecommerce teams from across the corporation and other key supply chain business teams developing strategic processes and solutions
- Map current processes, determine alternative methods, create simulation models to test alternatives and build robust process working closely with multiple stakeholders

- Contribute to the development and maintenance of sustainable process documentation that demonstrates due diligence and compliance
- Support the day-to-day Courier Operations activities. Including: Last Mile, all Business to Customer, and all Business to Business. Supporting shipment tracking, network health and capacity, and issue resolution with all couriers

About Us
