Job Req: R253306

We are driven to do more. More for our customers and the financial professionals who offer our products. If you are driven to do more and love the challenge of pursuing more, Athene is your kind of company. You will find we offer more than the basics to create an inclusive and dynamic work environment at our various locations.

Purpose:

At Athene, we are driven to do more. We are a leading retirement services company that issues, reinsures, and acquires retirement savings products designed for the increasing number of individuals and institutions seeking to fund retirement needs. Athene provides products in the retirement savings market, including retail and fixed indexed annuity products as well as institutional products, such as funding agreements. We see every day as a new opportunity to measure ourselves against the best - and then we don't stop until we've set the bar even higher. We're ready to help you achieve more.

Athene has established a Canadian Service Company to continue to attract and develop professional talent and to support business units in the US and Bermuda locations.

We are seeking to fill a actuarial student co-op roles in our downtown Toronto location. Start and end time of this opportunity are flexible but will ideally encompass a minimum of 4 consecutive months from January - April 2026.

The Actuarial Student Co-op role will focus on one of our various available roles which include:

1. Experience Analysis
2. EBS Reporting
3. CFT/Hedging

These roles will have the opportunity to work with various departments across the organization.

Accountabilities:

- Assist in the preparation of annual experience analysis process, including gathering of data, updating excel model inputs, compiling output, and summarizing results in presentable format for senior and executive management.
- Assist with the production and reporting of Bermuda Economic Balance Sheet (EBS) results.
- Assist with the daily/weekly derivative collateral process.
- Assist with monthly collateral deal calculations.
- Contribute to enhancing documentation across all business, including company memos and excel tables.
- Ensure proper controls are built and completed to maintain a strong control environment.
- Work with other team members and aid in ad hoc projects as needed.

Drive. Discipline. Confidence. Focus. Commitment. Learn more about working at Athene.
