Do you enjoy conducting industry and client specific research, analyzing market trends and developing financial models?

We would love to meet you!

What will your typical day look like?

As an Analyst Intern, you will have the opportunity to work across a full range of services. That said, if you asked one of our current Analysts about the types of things they have actually done over the past year or so, they would probably include things like:

- Work on client engagement teams executing Valuations and Modelling projects, supporting key decision makers in developing and executing deliverables;
- Contribute to presentation materials, reports and schedules for client engagements;
- Prioritize objectives and contribute to project planning and status reporting;
- Actively perform and promote peer-reviews and other quality activities to continuously improve our quality and raise the bar;
- Actively focus on developing effective communication and relationship-building skills; and
- Work in a collaborative team environment.

About the team

Deloitte's Valuations and Modelling team specializes in solving complex business and transaction issues, including analyzing valuation alternatives and recommending solutions. We understand how to quantify and present valuation analyses and conclusions in concert with prevailing accounting, tax, and regulatory codes for transaction, financing, litigation, strategic management, and compliance purposes. Our main areas of focus are:

- Business valuations;
- Damage quantification;
- Valuations related to financial statements;
- Mergers, acquisitions, and divestitures;
- Strategic and financial consulting; and
- Financial modeling.

Job Requirements

Enough about us, let's talk about you

- Working towards completing a post-secondary degree or diploma
- Strong communication skills (written and verbal), including experience in conducting research, synthesizing data, writing reports and preparing presentations
- An aptitude for quantitative and qualitative analysis, such as financial analysis or modeling, market research and analysis, project problem diagnosis and solution development;
- A great problem solver
- A self-starter and highly organized

Quebec Location: We require basic English language skills to meet the needs of our clients. In the context of mandates, you could work for clients with activities outside of Quebec and where the first language is English.

Citizenship Requirement N/A
