Job Description

About the Award: Full Award Info

Only open to International Students

The Work Learn International Undergraduate Research Awards are designed for international undergraduate students who are interested in research.

These awards subsidize professors to hire international undergraduate students to work full-time on their research projects in the Summer Session (May to August). International students who receive the awards gain workplace experience through an undergraduate research opportunity.

Award period, value, and payment

The minimum normal duration of the award is 16 consecutive weeks of full-time work. Learn more about work hours, the value of an award, and the work payments and benefits that come with a research position.

Work payment and benefits

Based on the current BC minimum wage requirements (minimum wage of $17.85/hour), the minimum pay for the duration of your award of 16 weeks is $10,395.84, inclusive of 4% vacation pay. If the award is longer than 16 weeks, your pay should increase by a minimum of $649.74 for each additional week, inclusive of 4% vacation pay, or $129.95 for each additional day, inclusive of 4% vacation pay.

Supervisors are also required to fund benefits such as Canada Pension Plan (CPP), Employment Insurance (EI), Workers Compensation Board (WCB) and British Columbia Employer Health Tax (BC EHT). These benefits amount to approximately 10.47% of your salary.

You will receive your payment from UBC following its pay procedures. You will also receive a T4 or T4A slip (Statement of Income) for tax purposes from UBC Payroll. Learn about taxes in Canada.

If you plan to work part-time at any point, your supervisor will not be reimbursed by the Award. Additionally, no payment will be approved for the vacation leave you take during the work period of the award.

Job Requirements

How to apply

There are 2 options for applying to the Work Learn International Undergraduate Research Awards. Read the instructions below and download the application timeline overview (pdf) for your reference.

- Option 1: Submit a research proposal with a faculty member by Jan 28, 2026.

- Option 2: Apply through UBC CareersOnline for a Work Learn International Undergraduate Research Award position in March.

Option 1: Submit a research proposal with a Faculty member

Option 2: Apply on UBC CareersOnline

If you don't have a research opportunity in mind, the second way is to apply for Work Learn International Undergraduate Research Awards opportunities posted on UBC CareersOnline in March. You'll apply directly to the faculty member and follow their application instructions on UBC CareersOnline. You can apply for as many positions as you like.

Below are tips for preparing to apply:

- The faculty member may request a cover letter, resume, and further information, such as transcripts and additional forms, as part of the application process. Find tips on how to write your resume and cover letter.
- Prepare for your interview by reading the position description carefully. Be prepared to talk about why you're interested and what you hope to learn from the experience. Learn more about interview preparation.
